COUNTRY CLUB TO HEAR MR. TUPPER

LECTURE ON "OUR SPANISH-AMERICAN NEIGHBORS" NEXT TUESDAY

Important Business Meeting Regarding Decision as to Remodelling Present Club House or Planning for New Structure.

Wilbur Tupper, of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, will address the Country Club of Washington Township on "Our Snanish-American Neighbors," on next Tuesday, Dec. 4, according to Mrs. J. E. Townsend, chairman of the program committee.

At the business meeting which begins at 2 o'clock, action will be taken upon the matter of the proposed remodeling of the present club house or plans for a new building and location.

The musical part of the program will consist of numbers by the Hayward Choral club under the direction of Miss Anne Obermuller, director of vocal music for the Hayward schools. Novelty features of whistling solos will be included.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM PLANNED BY SCHOOL ORCHESTRA LEADER

At a recent meeting of the Washington Township music committee plans were completed for a Christmas program to be held on Friday evening, December 21, in the Washington Union High school auditorium at Centerville. The principal feature of the program will be the singing of many of the most beautiful Christmas hymns and carols by several hundred children from the Washington Township schools accompanied by an orchestra of over a hundred players selected from the more than three hundred students who are taking instrumental music. The program will include nearly all of the well known Christmas hymns like "Come All Ye Faithful," and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and some that are not so well known but which are nevertheless very beautiful. The orchestra will be the finest group of amateur players ever heard in the district, as well as by far the largest, and will include nearly every instrument known to the modern symphony orchestra. There will be more than fifty violins, and a dozen or so each of violas, cellos, string basses, clarinets, and trumpets. There will be a half dozen flutes, four oboes, six Franch horns, a bassoon, bass clarinet, several slide trombones, bass tubas, and saxaphones, as well as kettledrums and piano.

There will be a large and beautifully decorated Christmas tree covered with numerous colored lights, that will add a touch of beauty to the program.

A few other features of the program are still to be arranged, which will be announced later. It is believed that the high school auditorium will not be able to acommodate the tremendous crowd that will wish to hear this magnificent program. The school choruses are working on the hymns and carols under the direction of Mrs. C. F. Foster, and the orchestra will soon be ready to add its part to the great performance. Both John Kimber and J. P. McClellan, instructors in instrumental music in the Washington Township schools, feel that very gratifying progress is being made with the various school orchestras. A considerable amount of raw material is being developed, and it will not be long before the different orchestras will each be able to play satisfactorily.

HOLLY SUGAR CO. HANDLES 53,554 TONS OF BEETS

Successful Season Closes At Alvarado Factory On the Sixteenth

Fifty-three thousand five hundred and fifty-four tons of beets were handled at the Holly Sugar Company in Alvarado during the past season which closed on the 16th, the following interesting facts being given out by W. H. Ziegler, superintendent:

160,520 one-hundred pound bags of sugar were made.

146 men were employed on the overage.

The average price paid per ton of beets was a little more than $7.11, a price which was profitable to the grower.

At present thirty men are employed and will remain througout the year until next busy season.

Freedom From Disaster and Era Of Prosperity Merit Thanks To Almighty, Says Calvin Coolidge

America's freedom from disaster and pestilence and the era of national prosperity are mentioned by President Calvin Coolidge as reasons for the people to cease from their daily work and in their accustomed places of worship devoutly give thanks to the Almighty for the many and great blessings they have received, and he proclaims, Thursday, November 29, as a day set aside for national Thanksgiving.

His proclamation, given to the press on October 24, reads as follows:

"By the President of the United States.

A proclamation.

"The season again approaches when it has been the custom for generations to set apart a day of thanksgiving for the blessings which the giver of all good and perfect gifts has bestowed upon us during the year. It is most becoming that we should do this, for the goodness and mercy of God which has followed us through the year deserve our grateful recognition and acknowledgement.

"Through His divine favor, peace and tranquility have reigned throughout the land. He has protected our country as a whole against pestilence and disaster and has directed us in the way of national prosperity. Our fields have been abundantly productive; our industries have flourished; our commerce has increased; wages have been lucrative and contentment has followed the undisturbed pursuit of honest toil.

"As we have prospered in material things, so have we also grown and expanded in things spiritual. Through divine inspiration we have enlarged our charities and our missions; we have been imbued with high ideals which have operated for the benefit of the world and the promotion of the brotherhood of man through peace and good will.

"Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, do hereby set apart Thursday, the 29th day of November next as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer, and I recommend that on that day the people shall cease from their daily work and in their homes and in their accustomed places of worship devoutly give thanks to the Almighty for the many and great blessings they have received, and seek His guidance that they may deserve a continuance of His favor.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the United States.

"Done at the city of Washington, this thenty-third day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight, and of the Independence of the United States, the one hundred and fifty-third.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Frank B. Kellogg,
Secretary of State.

GOAL OF $1,000 SET FOR SALE OF CHRISTMAS SEALS

Last year a total of $717.45 was collected through the sale of Anti-Tuberculosis Christmas seals in the schools and the township as a whole. This year's goal is $1,000 and chairmen have now received all necessary information and material to proceed with the sale which will begin Friday, Nov. 30.

J. L. Bunker, grammar school supervisor, took charge of the seal sale through the schools, and submits the following report for work done in 1927.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES IN THE CHURCHES

IRVINGTON

The Irvington Community church will observe Thanksgiving Day with a service at 9:30 a. m. The service will be short, lasting about forty-five minutes, and the President's Proclamation will be read, hymns of Thanksgiving will be sung, and other expressions of Thanksgiving will be observed. This has been the custom for a number of years and the Christian people of the township, who are not planning on attending church elsewhere are heartily invited to attend this church on this morning of thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving services in Community Center, 9 a. m. Program planned for one hour, Thursday.

CENTERVILLE

Rev. W. J. Attwood, pastor, will conduct special Thanksgiving services at the St. James Episcopal church Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Marston Dassel are entertaining Mel and George Duffey and Mrs. Catherine Duffey at Thanksgiving dinner.

WE GIVE THANKS

THIS MORNING, as the sky colors a rich crimson red in the east, will be born another anniversary of that day which immortalizes the giving of thanks by the Pilgrim fathers to Him, who in His mercy and love, showered upon them a bounteous crop.

In the year 1621 on the last Thursday in November, Governor Bradford and the colony which only a year before had landed on Plymouth Rock, celebrated their first holiday. It had been a long, hard struggle in the new land, where these sturdy men and women had planted the seed of religious freedom, but now a short period of relaxation was theirs and they enjoyed their feast in goodfellowship—the friendly Indians joining them. Since that time our first national holiday has been annually observed, and everywhere under the Stars and Stripes men and women have offered up thanks to God for those old Pilgrims fathers and mothers who made possible our great land of the free—America.

Today every man, woman and child in the land has something for which to be thankful. Some may feel that it requires considerable optimism on their part to be able to see much for which to offer thanks. The year may have seen the visitation of the silent messenger who has taken from you a loved one; the year may have seen financial reverses overtake you, a valued friendship lost, or severe sickness may have rendered you weak and unable to cheerfully and easily grapple with the tasks of life. These things may be the harvest of the year for you, but in the midst of all the sorrows you may yet rejoice. You have life. Where there is life there is hope, yes, and opportunity—thanks to our Christian ancestors—to take up the broken cords of life and again enjoy peace and usefulness.

The people of Washington Township, as a whole, certainly have much to be thankful for in rich soil and the certainty of abundant rain and sunshine which assures a luxurious growth of whatever Nature has planted.

Personally, the editor of the Register is rejoicing this morning because a kindly Providence has cast his lot in the prosperous environs of Washington Township, and that he has been kindly welcomed to its business life. He trusts that many coming Thanksgiving days may find him still as he is today—a contented citizen of Washington Township.

INSTALLATION CEREMONIES OF LOCAL LEGION

Initiation of officers featured the meeting of the Washington Post, American Legion Tuesday evening, D. W. Pierson, district commander, and county council adjutant, from Hayward, being in charge of the ceremonies. Officers taking their places were:

J. E. Dutra, commander; A. E. Francis, first vice-commander; D. V. Curruthers, second vice-commander; Frank Veit, adjutant; Roland Bendel, chaplin and historian; J. R. Griffin, sergeant at arms; E. L. Smith, sentry; D. F. Gatchel, organist; R. K. Wilson, past commander.

Executive committee: Geo. Smith, D. F. Gatchel, J. E. Dutra, A. E. Francis and Frank Veit.

The next meeting will feature initiatory work, J. T. Marks, of Irvington, and Joe Dutra, of Niles, to be two of the candidates.

Mrs. Pierson, wife of the district commander, and president of the auxiliary, spoke, urging the local post to set a date for discussion of the organization of an auxiliary in Washington Township. From all reports, it seems that the gentlemen are not overly anxious for this addition but for the sake of peace at any price in various township homes we will refrain from stating which ones raised the objection.

TWO GREAT PLAYS

The publisher during the past week has witnessed two wonderfully acted plays—"The Squall," at the Geary theater, San Francisco, and the "Desert Song," at the Curran, also in San Francisco.

For fine acting, "The Squall" is far above anything that we have witnessed in years. The plot in itself is not deep or superior in any way, but the artistic acting of Bertha Mann is a revelation of beauty, inspiring in its perfection, touching in its pathos and exhiliarating in its interpretation of the final triumph of the ethical over the flesh, typified in a Gypsy girl, who by the arts peculiar to her tribe had enviegled the husband, the son and even the servant into her net.

Every member of this cast was superior. Suzanne Caubaye as Nubi, the Gypsy girl, played the more difficult part in a manner to kindle the admiration of theatrical connoisseurs, as well as the occassional theater-goer.

***

The Squall, we believe, is in its final week. One who has taste for something fine, in theatricals, should see this play.

***

The "Desert Song," is playing a return engagement at the Curran. We believe this bill was advertised some months ago at the same playhouse. It gives a spectacular rendition of a Moroccan story, and the locale is laid in Northern Africa. The play begins in the tent of Ali

HINTS FOR MAILING CHRISTMAS PACKAGES

"Back East" Parcels Should Leave Local Office By Dec. 14

It's time to be thinking of Christmas mail. Do your Christmas shopping early also means do your Christmas shipping early. Last-minute mailing dates have not been given out by the local post office yet, but Harry S. New, postmaster general, in his hints for Christmas mailing being distributed now suggests that all foreign packages be mailed in November.

No parcel may be more than 84 inches in length and girth combined. For delivery locally and in the first, second and third zones, 70 pounds is the maximum weight; in all other zones, 50 pounds.

During the holiday time the volume of mail increases approximately 200 per cent. It is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail matter efficiently and promptly within a few days. Therefore to assure delivery of their Christmas presents, cards, and letters by Christmas day the public should shop and mail early. Do your Christmas shopping so that you can mail your gifts, etc., at least a week or ten days before Christmas, according to the distance. This will not only make it certain that they are received on or before Christmas Day, but will be a great aid to your postal service and to postal employees and enable them to spend Christmas Day with their families.

Christmas cards and gifts addressed to points within one day's travel should be mailed in no event later than December 20; within two days' travel, not later than December 18; within three days' travel, not later than December 16; for more distance points not later than December 14.

Coin, currency, jewelry and articles of similar value should be sent sealed first-class registered mail.

FIRST DANCE OF ASSEMBLY VOTED MARKED SUCCESS

Members of the Centerville Assembly who failed to appear at the dance last Friday evening missed one of the best entertainments yet enjoyed by the club. Music was furnished by Sykes' orchestra from San Jose and its excellence was so marked that the organization voted to engage the musicians for the rest of the season.

The same committee which served last year was unanimously re-elected. The next dance will be held December 14.

Niles Visitors See "Hell's Angels" At Oakland Airport

A number of Niles people visited the Oakland airport Sunday afternoon and were thrilled with the maneuvers of the scores of planes there engaged in the filming of the new big air picture, "Hell's Angels."

Personal Mention.

Mrs. J. E. Maddux returned last week form a trip to Los Angeles. While there she became so enamored with the new Fordor Sedan that she purchased one and drove it up over the Ridge route home. Her brother, Mr. J. R. McCue rode with her. Mrs. Maddux says her new car has all the appointments which go to make a car comfortable.

Twenty-nine tables played whist at the card party given by the Native Daughters of the Golden West Tuesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Clapp have been visiting Mr. Clapp's grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hatch, this week. The young couple were married in the San Gabriel Episcopal church last Wednesday and were given a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clapp, of Alhambra, following the ceremony. They were honor guests at a family diner given at the Hatch home Sunday.

Mrs. W. H. Ford will entertain the Child Welfare Club next Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sheppard and Mrs. Wood of Cupertino were recent callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Eberly.

TRAVELLING CLERK USES NILES LIBRARY

Appreciation of the Niles library and the services of its substitute librarian, Mrs. Marston Dassel, is expressed in a letter from James F. Cooper, Tuolumne, addressed to Mr. and Mrs. William Ford, donors of the library.

Regret that this splendid plant is not used to a greater extent is also expressed in the letter which follows:

Tuolumne, Calif.,
Nov. 3, 1928.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ford,
Niles, Calif.

Dear Sir and Madame:

A short time ago the outer terminal of my run as a railroad postal clerk was changed to Niles so it is necessary for me to lay over at Niles between the arrival of train No. 31, and the departure of train No. 38, on three different days each month. The other time I run between Tuolumne and Stockton. There is no place to put in time at Niles so I did not like the idea at all of laying over there until the barber told me of the nice library you had there.

Now my lay-off time at Niles is looked forward to for I spend all of my time at the wonderful library you and your good wife have placed there, and the lady in charge in the afternoons—I believe her name is Mrs. Dassel—has been most helpful to me in selecting books I wanted to read. She seems to be an excellent lady for the place. This library seems to have a quite restful atmosphere and it has books like "Burbanks," "Books of Rural Life" which so few small libraries carry. The only fault I can find is that not enough people use the library.

I wish to express to you and your wife and to the librarian my appreciation for the use of this library.

With kindest wishes, I am,
Yours truly,
JAMES F. COOPER.

Wanderer Begs At Door of Constable

A man may be down and never out, as our friends in the Salvation Army would put it, or he may be lost and in his own room, as per incident related by Constable Manuel Bernardo rewarding a recent nocturnal visitor who came to his door very much the worse for imbibing canned heat. Bernardo heard strange mutterings without and not wishing to turn on the light groped his way from his bed to get his gun and then started for the front door. He found out, however, that the theory that a man lost travels in a circle is really true and after searching vainly for the frontal portal of his domicle he had to appeal to friend wife for more light on the subject. Arriving on his front porch he found Jack Terrell, "floater," in a most deplorable frame of mind and state of being, asking the donation of a little food. The wanderer was taken to jail for the night where he found warmth and rest. Appearing before Judge Allen G. Norris later he was told to find occupation in some neighboring clime.

– a Six in the price range of the four!

The Chevrolet Motor Company announces The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History . . . a Six in the price range of the four!

Spectacular as Chevrolet's achievements have been in the past . . . notable as its engineering triumphs have proved themselves to be—this remarkable new car dwarfs every previous Chevrolet accomplishment. Not only does it introduce into the low-priced field an entirely new measure of performance, comfort, beauty and style—but it is sold at prices so low as to alter every previous conception of motor car value.

The new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—developed from more than a hundred motors designed especially for this sensational car—stands out as an engineering masterpiece. With a power increase of approximately 32% over the previous Chevrolet motor, with sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration—it offers a type of performance that is literally astounding. And it affords an economy averaging better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

In appearance, this Outstanding Chevrolet is destined to become an automotive sensation—so smart, so stylish and so distinctively appointed that it rivals the costliest custom creations! The marvelous new Fisher bodies are longer, lower and roomier with adjustable driver's seat in all closed models—and reveal the matchless artistry of Fisher designers. With their modish new colors, their smart dual mouldings and their distinctive concave pillars, they achieve a degree of original beauty that has seldom been equalled in motor car design.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will hold their annual social and sale in the church parlors on the afternoon of Friday, December 7.

The ladies are busy preparing for the event and a large atendance is expected.

***

Quite a number of the Newark people have been attending the Bible Conference in Centerville, and have profited from and enjoyed the informal talks of the Rev. Francis Russell this past week.

***

On Sunday the churches of Alvarado, Centerville, Newark and Irvington held a joint communion service in Centerville, led by Rev. Francis Russell. In the evening the same churches united in a service in Newark Presbyterian church.

***

The Women's Missionary society met last Tuesday with Mrs. Slaten and Mrs. Williams as hostesses.

Papers were read on the work done in Siam; and a very interesting account of work among the mountain people was given by a former missionary from that country.

After the program, delicious refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

IRVINGTON

Guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Durham for the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Bellfield of Oakland.

WE HAVE ALL heard the old adage about locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen. Many people delay their Christmas shopping until after all the better things have been selected and a merchandise stock has been picked over. They invariably find they must therefore pay more than planned for their gifts. Economy, good tase and comfort demands we "shop early." Shopping wisely requires that one compare values and prices.

The merchants on this page invite you to shop at their stores—they know you will be pleased and pleasantly surprised.

PATSY DUFFEY AND BETTY BUNKER WIN IN ESSAY CONTEST

Thinking that Register readers might like to be reminded of the First Thanksgiving and to give the school children a little opportunity for competition in good English, the two following essays were solicited from the Niles Grammar school. Patsy Duffey's was chosen as best in the Seventh Grade, and Betty Bunker's as best in the Eighth.

THE STORY OF THE PILGRIMS
By PATSY DUFFEY.

The Pilgrims were very good and pious people. They worked hard and obeyed the King in all respects except one. The Pilgrims would not go to the Church of England. For that reason many of them were arrested and thrown into prison, so finally they decided to go to Holland. It was the only country that permitted its people to worship as they wished. They lived in Holland for about twelve years. There they were free to worship God as they wished but still they were not happy. Their children were forming Dutch habits of which the Pilgrims did not approve. They wanted to live under the English flag.

At last they decided to sail to America. They decided that the younger ones should go first.

They reached America in 1620 after many hardships in crossing the ocean. Winter was soon upon them so they had to build homes. They endured many hardships that winter and about half of them died.

At last spring came and they planted crops and tended them all summer. When autumn came they harvested their crops and decided to give thanks. They invited the Indians to come and feast with them. Some of the Indians stayed three days. From then on Thanksgiving has been held every year. Thus Thanksgiving has been reserved as a legal holiday.

THE CUSTOM OF THANKSGIVING
By BETTY BUNKER

It has been the custom of the people of the United States for many years to set aside a day for giving thanks to God for the harvest of the year. That day is usually the last Thursday of November.

When the Pilgrim Fathers first came over to America the first few years were full of hardships, but Governor Bradford in the year 1621 set aside a day for giving thanks to God for keeping them safe even though their harvest had been scanty.

In 1623 another day was proclaimed and a great feast was given to which the Indians were also invited. Games were played and the harvest of the year was set away. The Pilgrims who were very pious people gave their thanks to God for their bountiful harvest and helping them make peace with the Indians.

In 1789 George Washington, then president, set aside a day. During the following years it was not observed annually until 1864 when President Lincoln appointed the last Thursday of November. It has been the custom since.

The American people on that day, set aside by the president, cease their work and give thanks to God for His kindness and mercy of the year, and the blessings bestowed upon them during the year past.

Niles Sunday School Gives Thank Offering To Children's Home

Thanksgiving was observed by the Sunday School of the Niles Congregational church Sunday morning, an offering of fruit and goodies being brought for the Children's Home. Rev. A. W. Seebart, pastor, told the children the story of the First Thanksgiving.

NILES GUILD BAZAAK ATTENDED BY SCORES

Miss Bunker's Class Gives Clever Playlet During Afternoon

Nearly eighty attended the ham dinner given by the Ladies' Guild of the Niles Congregational church at their annual bazaar last Friday, the booths, of fancy-work, home-cooked food, etc., being well patronized. About $175 was cleared.

During the afternoon a play was given by the pupils of Miss Celeste school, several of the boys and girls taking their parts exceptionally well. Leading parts were taken by Estelle Martenstein, Arnold Abrott, Eugene Leal, Patsy Duffey, Verna Orcutt, and John Habenicht. Others participating were: Harry Wilcox, Melvin Farmer, Eugene Smith, Lucile Alves, Lorene Kerns, John Amarant, Patrick Pine, Annie Cortez, Helen Avila, Adeline Rose and Rosemary Clark.

A piano duet was also given by Estelle Martenstein and Muriel Fournier

Many who did not arrive in time for lunch came in for coffee and sandwiches during the afternoon.

Look not upon the wine when it is red. At the last it stingeth like a serpent and biteth like an adder.—Prov.

TOYAN BRANCH HAS SOLD 125 BROOMS

Plans Made for Booth At Bazaar in Oakland This Week-End

Members of Toyan Branch of the Baby Hospital Association were delighted with the reports on sale of artistic hearth brooms given at the meeting held at the home of the chairman, Mrs. James R. Whipple, Monday afternoon, all of the 125 brooms purchased having been disposed of. Money gained from this sale will purchase more brooms which will be sold at the annual bazaar to be held at Hotel Oakland, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Miss Teresa Gallegos will act as chairman of the booth on Friday and Mrs. W. H. Ford, on Saturday. Mrs. Wm. Eberly, Misses Gallegos, Mrs. Whipple, Mrs. J. M. Williamson and Miss Nauret will assist.

Orders are still being taken and as only 100 of the large brooms were brought from the Orient, those who wish to be sure to secure one of these ornamental brooms for self or for Christmas gifts or bridge prizes should telephone order to some member of Toyan Group before Friday, if it is impossible to attend the bazaar.

All members reported most satisfactory results from the broom sale. Housewives seemed delighted in every case to have the opportunity to secure one of these beautiful and useful articles. In addition to the 125 brooms already sold, the group hopes to dispose of 200 small brooms and 100 large ones at the bazaar. Profits will go toward the $500 which the branch hopes to raise for furnishing Toyan Room at the Baby Hospital building, an instituion where the very best medical attention is given children at a cost in proportion to the parents' income.

WARM SPRINGS
By Mrs. H. J. Allard

The Settling of the Sage

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

At the Warren ranch, the "Three Bar," a stranger applied for work as a rider. Williamette Ann Warren—known to all as "Billie," is the owner of the ranch. The girl's father, Cal Warren, had been the original owner. The question whether the territory is to remain "cow country" or be opened to settlement is a troublesome one. The newcomer is put to work. Cattle "rustlers" have been troubling the ranch owners. The new hand gives his name as Cal Harris. By his announcement in favor of "squatters" he incurs the enmity of a rider known as Morrow. The will made by Cal Warren stipulated that half the property should go to the son of his old friend, William Harris, under certain conditions. The new arrival is the man, and he discloses the fact to Billie. Slade, a ranchman with an unsavory reputation, visits Billie. Slade, endeavoring to embrace Billie is interrupted by Harris. The regular calf round-up is begun. While the riders are at their evening meal, far out on the range, six outsiders join them. Billie knows them to be "rustlers," who, under the leadership of Slade and a man named Harper, have in the past stolen Three Bar cattle. To test Harris' courage the girl appoints him temporary foreman, suggesting that he order the visitors to leave. Somewhat to her surprise he does so.

Harris and the girl worked the last draw themselves and when they drove their cows out of the mouth of it they found a herd already milled, two hundred yards above the wagon. Harris left her and circled the bunch, estimating it.

When the last rider appeared with his bunch and threw it into the herd Harris signaled all hands to change mounts. Half the men repaired to the rope corral and caught up cow horses while the balance of the crew held the herd, each one relieving some other as soon as he had saddled a fresh horse.

A sagebrush fire was burning fifty yards above the wagon and each man rode past it, leaned from his saddle and dropped his running iron in the flame.

The men worked round the edge of the bunch and slipped a noose on every calf that was thrown to the edge of the constantly shifting mass. Morrow roped the first calf and dragged it to the fire.

As much as she loved the round-up, many times as she had seen it, Billie Warren had never become calloused to the brutalities perpetrated on the calves. She withdrew and sat in the shade of the wagon. She was downwind and the dust raised by the trampling hoofs floated down to her, mingled with the odor of steaming cows, the acrid smoke of the sage fire and the taint of scorched hair and flesh.

In a short space of time the herd had been worked, the last calf branded, and Harris led the men up the bottoms. Five miles up the valley, at the spot where he had crossed it a few hours before, they found the wagon waiting at the new stand, the corral refashioned and the remuda inside it. It was but ten o'clock but the first circle had commenced at four. The noon meal on the round-up was served whenever the first circle was completed. The men fell ravenously on the hot meal, changed to fresh circle horses and started again.

It was falling dusk when the herd gathered in the third circle had been worked and the last calf branded for the day.

At the end of the first week out from the ranch Harris pulled up his horse beside the girl's and showed her his tally book.

"We've run Slade's mark on more calves than we have our own," he said. "That's one way he works.'

"But that's not his fault and it doesn't mean anything," she said. "His cows are sure to drift. This first strip we've worked is the southernmost edge of our range and his north wagon works the strip right south of us. We're sure to find a number of his cows. As we double back on our next lap we'll not find the same proportion."

"Not quite—but plenty," he predicted. "We've marked more calves for Slade in one week than all his three wagon crews will mark for the Three Bar in a year. The first three weeks of each season your men do a little more work for Slade than they do for you. It's a safe bet that the Halfmoon D does the same, and so on through every brand that joins his range. That puts him way off ahead."

"But that is pure accident," she said.

"It's pure design," he stated. "His boys are busy shoving his cows from the middle all ways so that when fall comes he has a good inside block that's only been lightly fed over. They fall back on that for winter feed. Last winter, when cows were dying like rats, his men were out drifting Slade's stuff back toward his middle range."

"That's true enough," she admitted. "But—"

"But you thought he was doing it as a favor to you—getting his surplus off your territory so your own cows would have a better chance. That's the same kind of talk he floated all round the line; playing the benevolent neighbor when in reality the old pirate had deliberately planned, year after year, to overcrowd your range and feed you out."

"But his men would know," she objected.

"Not many of them would grasp the whole scheme of it," he said. "You hadn't thought of it yourself, and what if a few of them did surmise? They're riding for his brand."

The girl nodded. That unalterable code again—the religion of being loyal to one's brand. Not one of Slade's men would balk at doing it knowingly; each would do anything to advance his interests as long as he drew his pay from Slade.

As they talked Harris detailed men for each draw but when they reached the point where they were due to drop down and cross the valley he pulled up his horse.

"You take the rest of the circle, Carp," he instructed Carpenter. "I'm going to ride off up the rise a piece." The girl regarded him curiously. No less than three times in the last week he had stopped midway of the circle and asked her to complete it. Now he had turned it over to Carp and he signaled her to remain with him.

"Where are we going?" she asked as she watched the men ride down toward the bottoms. "And why?"

"Back the way we came," he said. "And maybe I can show you why."

He headed back the divide they had just followed until he came to the saddle at the head of a draw that led down to the valley. Far below them they could see a rider hazing a bunch of cows out into the bottoms. High on the right-hand slope of the gulch lay a notch, a little blind basin watered by the seepage from a side-hill spring, and there on the green bed of it a dozen cows with their calves grazed undisturbed. For perhaps five minutes Harris lolled sidewise in the saddle and watched them. Then a rider appeared on the ridge that divided that draw from the next, dropped in below the cows and headed them back over the ridge into the draw from which he had appeared. Even at that distance she recognized this last man as Lanky Evans. Harris resumed his way down the divide and she knew that he had discovered some irregularity for which he had been seeking.

"Who was the man that overlooked those cows?" she asked. "Who worked that draw?"

"Morrow," he said. "His eyesight is getting bad. That's the second time this week—and the last."

"Then Morrow is an inside man for Harper," she said. "Drawing Three Bar pay and working against us, too."

"Yes," he said. "Only he's an inside man for Slade."

"But how could his leaving those calves behind benefit Slade?" she demanded.

"How could it benefit Harper?" he countered. "Can you tell me that?"

She could not and motioned for him to go on.

"None of Harper's men has a brand of his own," he said. "They're living on the move. They can't wait for calves to grow up. The way they work is to run a bunch of beef steers across into Idaho. They'll pick up another bunch there and shove them across the Utah line and repeat by moving a drove of some Utah brand up in here. Only beef steers—quick turning stuff. You know about the reputation of the O V and the Lazy H Four."

She knew all too well. There was a half-feud, a smoldering distrust displayed between cowmen on each side of the three state lines, a triangle of ill feeling. It was current rumor that the O V and the Lazy H Four, ranging far southwest of the Three Bar, would traffic in any steers that came from across either the Utah or Idaho line. In the corner of those states were similar outfits that were receiving stations for rustled stock from the opposite sides. The triangular feud had been fostered to a point where the thieves were immune. Even if a direct complaint should be brought against them they had but to ride across into another state and a sheriff following them would be helpless, the inhabitants resenting this intrusion into their affairs by an officer from another state, truly having no right there, and refusing to aid him even if they did not actually oppose his passage.

"But how would it benefit Slade?" she repeated.

"Why, suppose that Morrow overlooked a nice bunch of Three Bar calves all along this first strip next to Slade's range," Harris said. "Then some Slade rider happens to drop along after our wagon has moved on and he hazes them off south. Later another picks them up and shoves them along another half-day's drive—way beyond where our boys ever work, even beyond the strip covered by Slade's north wagon, the only one that carries a Three Bar rep; what then?"

"The calves would still be with mothers wearing the Three Bar mark," she said. "After they leave the cows they're sticks, fair game for the first man that puts his rope on them—and Slade wouldn't risk running one of his own brands on them before they left the cows."

"Not one of his own, no," Harris said; "only one that's going to be his later on. Did it ever strike you as queer that Slade, whose way is to crush every new outfit, should suffer a soft-hearted streak every year or so and befriend some party that had elected to start up for himself right in the middle of Slade's range? And later buy him out? That's the way he came into nearly every brand he runs. Several of those dinky little owners have moved out right sudden with a dozen riders from some other outfit fanning along close behind; McArthur didn't even get moved, for Brandons went on the war trail before he had time to start. But it transpired that he was all set to go because Slade showed bill of sale for Mac's holdings, dated only the day before. That's how he came to own every one of those brands that match up so close with those of every outfit that overlaps his range."

They had turned their horses down a long ridge that led to the wagon in the bottoms.

"I'll mention to the boys that Morrow sold out the interests of the Three Bar while he was drawing down your pay. They'll pass sentence on him right sudden. Four hours from now they'll have dry-gulched him so far from nowhere that even the coyotes can't find him."

"Not that," she said. "Turn him over to the sheriff. You caught him in the act."

"In the act of missing a few cows on his detail. The sheriff would hold him almost an hour before he let him go."

"Then give him his check and send him off the Three Bar range," she said.

Harris waited till the herd had been worked and the men had gathered round the wagon. Then he handed Morrow a check.

"Here's your time," he said. "You can be leaving almost any time now."

Every man knew that Morrow had been caught at some piece of work contrary to the interests of the Three Bar. The discharged hand gave a short ugly laugh.

"As soon as you pussyfooted into the foreman's job I knew it was only a question of time," he said.

"Exactly," Harris returned. "Pack your stuff."

"A foreman has a scattering of a dozen or so men to back him up," Morrow observed with a shrug of one shoulder toward the rest of the men.

Harris turned to the girl.

"I resign for about sixty seconds," he said and swung back toward Morrow; and again all hands noted his queer quartering stand. "I'm not foreman right at this minute," he said. "So if you had anything in particular to address to me in a personal vein you can start now. Otherwise you'd better be packing your stuff."

Morrow turned his back and headed for the rope corral. When he had saddled one horse and packed his effects on another he turned to Evans.

"You helped frame this on me," he said. "I thought I saw you messing over into my detail a few days back. One day right soon I'll run across you again."

"Then I'll take to riding with my head over my shoulder—surveying my back-track," Lanky promised. "Because we'll most likely meet from behind."

Morrow started to snarl an answer, his usual self-repression deserting him, but Harris waved an impatient hand.

"Drag it!" he snapped. "Get moving. If I had my own way we'd lead your horse out from under you—and we will if I ever hear of your turning up on the Three Bar range again."

No Possible Danger From That Cemetery

Eugene Field while on one of his lecturing tours entered Philadelphia. There was some delay at the bridge over the Schuykill river, and the humorist's attention was attracted by the turbid, coffee-colored stream flowing underneath. He asked the colored porter: "Don't you people get your drinking water from this stream?"

"Yassir. Ain't got no yuther place to git it frum, 'cept the Delaweah. Yassir!"

"I should think," said the humorist, "that you would be afraid to drink such water; especially as the seepage from that cemetery I see on the hill must drain directly into the river and pollute it."

"I reckon yo' all doan' know Philadelphy ve'y well, sah, aw you'd know dat's Lau'el Hill cemete'y!" said the son of Ham.

"Well, what of that?" asked Field.

"Dat wattah doan' hu't us Philadelphians none, sah," replied the native son, "W'y mos' all of de folkses bu'ied theah aw f'om ouah ve'y best fam'lies."

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

Grace J. Austin.

One evening Dame Fashion had a good deal of amusement from the radio, hearing one of her acquaintances tell of the difficulty he had in making plain to a Spanish general in Cuba, through an interpreter, just who Santa Claus was. But there is not an individual, small or great, in these United States, who needs any description of the loving, genial old saint.

But many times gifts do not wait for Santa and his sleigh bells. Santa Claus seems to have dozens of gay little nephews—those who have charge of bridge and bunco clubs, contests of every sort for church and young folks' parties, events of coming or going or being born or becoming a grandmother, or getting engaged or married, or entering upon a new enterprise or occupation. For all of these the people of this happy country just pour out gifts. This increased custom of gift-giving furnishes just the oxygen to keep alive the fascinating gift shops.

Dame Fashion leaned the other day in admiration over the displays of a department where she could see gifts appropriate for individuals of many kinds—and all with the touch of new ideas about them. Looking over her notebook afterwards, there was the word "modernistic" to be found on every single page, showing that the new choker chains, the convenient compacts, the mesh bags and the leather—yes, and even the watches and clocks have felt the witchery of color splashes and mystic triangles. On one leaf of the book was scrawled, "The modernistic idea is as catching as the measles."

Two articles Dame Fashion nearly carried away with her—on that principle that is often so good, that of buying a gift for yourself, when no one is likely to think to buy it for you. Sometimes it happens when you put on a gown you cannot suit yourself in your whole box of bead chains. In such a time of stress, think how wonderful to have at hand a "Gypsy La Belle" chain, with long beads something of the type that the grandmothers used to call "bugles," with all the colors of the rainbow in it, to match any gown! The other article that made an ardent call to her was a clock; not such a big clock, but one that had the tower and stained glass effect of some European abbey.

As Santa Claus rides about in his sleigh this year, he will see, if he is at all observing, that he is not the only wearer of a red coat and cap. If Dame Fashion might be allowed to coin a mild slogan in that regard it would be "A shade of red for every head." Little folks start off to school in an extra happy mood, with a bright red beret or soft knitted cap, while Dame Fashion can declare from experience that if you are even middle-aged, and stand before the mirror to adjust a felt, velour or velvet hat or cap of rich red, claret or burgundy, you will involuntarily have to smile to match it.

Dame Fashion can also report having had a wireless message from Santa Claus that he hopes he will be assisted by as many as possible who will burn a tall red candle in their front window at the Christmas time, and that if ten thousand went out and sang Christmas carols last year, he hopes a hundred thousand will do it this season.

Bows, Streamers Feature Winsome Afternoon Dress

Flowered chiffon for afternoon occasions clings to its place in the sun. Here is a lovely creation in dark blue, beige, green and orange that flutters with bows and streamers.

Many Women in Need of Long Lines for Height

Do you need to look a little taller and not quite so plump? It's a desire many women have expressed. The frock illustrated has the long slim height-giving lines. This frock would look particularly well if made of crepe-back satin using both sides, a fabric that has triple recommendation of quality, durability and chic. A good navy blue in the same material would be equally as charming and give the same effect.—Woman's Home Companion.

Many Soft Innovations in This Season's Modes

The trend for feminizing softness seems to be continuing in popularity—making good the prophecy that styles would be more elaborate for the fall and winter months, observes a fashion writer in the Cleveland News. The afternoon dress which, due to the tremendous popularity of the sports two-piece, seemed to have fallen into the discard, is back again and gives promise of being much worn.

There are many such dresses in the shops made of flat crepe, transparent velvet and heavy satin. Each model seems to make a special effort to get away from the simplicity of the straight silhouette. As a result, these gowns introduce many soft innovations—draped necklines, trailing scarfs and every manner of skirt irregularity.

One model seen at a recent fashion showing boasted this elaborate treatment. It was made of black crepe satin, heavy and sleek. Its bodice, described in surpliced style, sponsored shoulder tucks, a deep V neckline backed with an inset of biscuit-colored chiffon and a graceful scarf. The latter of black satin with the light chiffon, conformed loosely to the neckline, with one of its ends slipping carelessly through a slit in the other. The effect was of a delightful soft neck-draping.

Sleeves were, according to the dictates of the moment, long and fitted but running into a little fluted ruff at the wrists. Wrist strings of self-material appeared to confine this fulness.

The skirt fell straight from the slightly bloused bodice with two full, irregular-lengthed flares appearing at either side of a long overskirt. The whole costume had good style and evidenced a complete departure from the approved severity of former modes.

Raspberry Red Fashions Charming Evening Outfit

A Worth evening ensemble particularly admired is "Eldorado" which is developed in a heavy ribbed silk called matasol in a most luscious shade of raspberry red. This gown is straight in outline without an apparent waistline and is formed of curved panels in a most effective way. The sides of the hemline dip in delicious curves giving a new outline. Over this gown is worn a velvet evening cape with a lining in the same shade just a bit lighter. Two narrow strips of the two shades of velvet hang from the back in a loose knot, while its main feature is its new high collar of sable standing straight up in the back to the top of the wearer's head and opening in the front in a graceful curve, forming a most attractive frame for the face.

Homespun Is Effective Material for Winter

Homespun is considered an effective material in Paris for the winter suit. At smart gatherings there are worn some attractive sac-type hip length coats, which are reminiscent of the cardigan at the front opening and which have buttoned straps at the sides, the under arms and the side hip pockets. Usually these models are completed by a loose belt and are worn over a diagonally striped jersey jumper blouse. The skirt top of this type of model is fitted down so low on the hips that the fitted section is visible below the coat edge, while the rest of the skirt flares out in front and side plaits.

The Kitchen Cabinet

"Every man feels instinctively that all the beautiful sentiments in the world weigh less than a single loving action, and that, while tenderness of feeling and susceptibility to generous emotions are accidents of temperament, goodness is an achievement of the will and a quality of life."

SUBSTANTIAL SALADS

A salad which contains cheese, meat, fowl or fish is usually sufficiently satisfying to make a main dish for a meal.

Chicken Salad.—Make one-half cupful of French dressing, add one-fourth cupful of Roquefort cheese to the dressing, add a dash of cayenne and one hard-cooked egg yolk, riced. Arrange nests of lettuce on serving plates. Place a spoonful of diced chicken and celery in the center and pour the dressing over all. Garnish with a ring or two hard-cooked egg white and a strip of pimento.

Harlequin Salad.—Take one and one-fourth cupfuls of chopped tongue or ham, one cupful of cooked lima beans and three hard-cooked eggs cut into eighths and one-fourth cupful of chopped gherkins. Cover with French dressing and marinate for at least one hour in a cold place. Heap on a nest of crisp lettuce and garnish with thick sliced tomato. Serve with:

Sour Cream Salad Dressing.—Combine one teaspoonful each of mustard and sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a bit of pepper. Beat one egg and add one-half cupful of milk and stir into the dry ingredients very gradually. Cook, stirring until the mixture coats the spoon, add one-third of a cupful of hot vinegar and one tablespoonful of butter, cool and add one-half cupful of sour cream. Pour over the salad and serve.

Mixed Vegetable Salad.—Take one cupful of shredded string beans, the same of peas, shredded cucumber and one-half cupful of thinly sliced radishes. Add French dressing and stand one-half hour to marinate. Halve six hard-cooked eggs lengthwise, cut off ends so that they stand upright and dip each into tart lemon jelly which is cold but not yet set; have the salad plates very cold and arrange the egg halves in a circle. They should stick at once if the jelly is right. Fill in with the vegetable mixture, top with lettuce heart and garnish with radish roses. Pass the mayonnaise.

Piquante Fish Salad.—Take two cupfuls of flaked cooked halibut, one-half cupful of shredded radishes, three-fourths cupful of diced celery. Mix lightly and add French dressing to moisten. Arrange on a bed of lettuce, sprinkle with one-fourth of a cupful of capers and a dash of paprika. Serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Chestnut Time.

This delicious nut should occupy a larger place on our tables, for it lends itself in so many ways in cookery.

Cooked chestnuts with apple and celery, as a Waldorf salad, adding a few other nuts for flavor, make a most tasty salad that nearly everybody likes.

Chestnut Soup.—Take five or six dozen good chestnuts, shell and blanch, then simmer them in chicken stock or any good broth. When tender rub the chestnuts through a coarse sieve. Add to the stock with seasoning a well-beaten egg or two and a little cream or milk with butter to add richness. Serve with croutons. French cooks often brown the nuts before cooking them in the stock; this adds a rich flavor as well as color to the soup.

Chestnut Stuffing.—Take three cupfuls of large French chestnuts, shell and blanch. Cook in boiling salted water until soft, then mash, using a potato ricer. Add butter, salt, pepper and cream, using one-half cupful of butter and one-fourth cupful of cream. Use one-fourth cupful of butter in the chestnuts and one-fourth cupful to mix with one cupful of cracker crumbs; combine mixtures and use as stuffing.

Chestnut Sauce to Serve With Turkey.—To three tablespoonfuls of fat left in the roasting pan add two tablespoonfuls of flour; stir, scraping the pan to remove every bit of the glaze. Pour into this one cupful of the potato water left when draing the potatoes, as this is rich in mineral salts; stir and cook until thick, season with salt and pepper and add a pint of mashed, cooked chestnuts, with a teaspoonful of chili sauce. Pour into a sauceboat and serve with the turkey.

Chestnut Custard.—To one cupful of chestnut pulp, add the yolks of three eggs, one beaten white, one cupful of rich milk, sugar and flavoring to taste. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake slowly. Make a meringue with the unused whites well beaten and two tablespoonfuls of sugar; spread over the custard and brown in the oven.

Cooked chestnuts dropped into a lemon sirup and cooked until thick then sealed make a delicious conserve to use with frozen dishes or as a garnish for desserts.

"John, There's a Fire Down the Street!"

ITS very nearness makes you shudder. And you think of your own home.

If you are properly protected by dependable Fire Insurance you feel safer.

Serious fires often spread from a very small beginning. The hope that a fire won't reach your house isn't nearly so comforting as the knowledge that if it should, you are fully protected from financial loss.

We would like to tell you how economically you can get this protection.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors Alameda County, California

Sealed bids will be received by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of Alameda County, California, at his office Monday, December 10th, 1928, at ten thirty o'clock A. M. (the day when said bids will be opened and the contract awarded) for the improvement of the Irvington-Warm Springs Road from Irvington Southerly to its junction with the State Highway near Warm Springs, all in Washington Road District, Washington Township, Alameda County, California.

Plans and specifications for said work are on file in the office of the County Clerk of Alameda County, in the Hall of Records Building in the City of Oakland, County of Alameda, State of California, where copies may be obtained in the following manner, viz:

Contractors may secure complete copies of the specifications by depositing with the County Clerk the sum of Ten Dollars ($10.00).

Contractors will be required to return copies of the specifications in good condition to the office of the County Clerk of Alameda County, California, not later than the day upon which bids are to be opened for the above specified improvement.

Deposits of contractors failing to return said specifications on or before the date of opening of bids, will immediately become forfeited to the County of Alameda.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check of a bank of the State of California, or a National Bank doing business in the State of California, for a sum equal to ten (10) per cent of the total amount bid made payable to Geo. E. Gross, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of Alameda County, to be forfeited to the County as agreed and liquidated damages should the party or parties to whom the contract shall be awarded fail to enter into the contract after the award, or to give the bonds required by law and by the said specifications.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

GEO. E. GROSS,
County Clerk and Ex-officio Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.
Dated: November 13, 1928.

The new Ford has a very simple and effective lubrication system

THE lubrication system for the engine of the new Ford is as simple in principle as water running down-hill.

A gear pump in the bottom of the oil pan raises the oil to the valve chamber reservoir. From here it flows on to the main crankshaft bearings and the front camshaft bearing. Overflow oil drops into the oil pan tray and runs into troughs through which the connecting rods pass.

As the ends of these rods strike the oil they scoop up a supply for the connecting rod bearing. At the same time they set up a fine spray that lubricates the pistons and other moving parts.

From the tray the oil runs into the bottom of the pan, and is again drawn up through a fine mesh screen and pumped to the valve chamber.

This system is so effective that the five-quart contents of the oil pan pass through the pump twice in every mile when you are traveling at only 30 miles an hour. Yet there is only one movable part — the oil pump.

As a matter of fact, the lubrication system for the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires practically no service attention.

There is just one thing for you to do, but it is a very important thing . . . watch the oil! Change the oil every 500 miles and be sure the indicator rod never registers below low (L).

If the oil level is allowed to fall below low, the supply becomes insufficient to oil all parts as they should be oiled.

To insure best performance it is also advisable to have the chassis of your car lubricated every 500 miles. This has been made easy in the new Ford through the use of the high pressure grease gun system.

Proper oiling and greasing mean so much to the life of your car that they should not be neglected or carelessly done.

See your Ford dealer regularly. He is especially well-fitted to lubricate the new Ford and he will do a good, thorough job at a fair price.

Decoto Department

By ORVILLE BLOSE.

Wednesday evening, Nov. 2, Peter Decoto and R. Bendel representing the Decoto Chamber of Commerce, attended a meeting of the Chambers of Commerce of Alameda county, in Oakland, for the purpose of deciding matter relative to county advertising and the selection of an advertising signature.

***

At the meeting of the Decoto Chamber of Commerce on the 20th, it was decided that efforts should be made to secure a better and more up-to-date telephone service. It was pointed out that a part-time service, such as Decoto now has, is an impediment to the progress of the community.

***

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Nov. 21—The Decoto Fire Department answered an alarm of fire to extinguish a burning automobile, owned by H. M. Hudson of Niles. The damage to the machine was slight.

***

Nov. 23—The Decoto Fire Department held a banquet in their new meeting room, recently added to the fire house. O. B. Merrick, former "Mayor" of Decoto, was an invited guest.

***

Twenty-five heard R. Baines Anderson speak at the Community Center Sunday evening. He was accompanied by Merle McKay, and Fay Winchester, all of the Oakland Fisherman's Club. Mr. Anderson, the youthful preacher, gave an inspirational message that will remain in the hearts of those who heard him for many months.

***

M. E. Silva and family of Atwater have purchased a large cement bungalow on Railroad Avenue.

***

Misses Edna and Vivian Joseph, Edith Goulart, and Ethel Ferry, Mrs. Frank Leonard and Mrs. A. S. Goulart attended the Vitaphone Sunday where the "Singing Fool" is being played.

***

The Decoto Fire Department had a delicious supper served to them by Roland Bendel, Friday evening. O. B. Merrick of Oakland told the members how he helped to secure the fire department for Decoto. It was reported with this year's taxes the truck, and all equipment would be paid for in full. Chief Bendel also gave a complimentary speech. A. P. Peacock brought up the question of having the siren raised higher.

***

William Walker brought home seven ribbons from the Pacific Rabbit Breeders' Association show held in Hayfard last week. He brought back several firsts and seconds.

***

Joe Pepitone is confined to his bed with several broken ribs.

***

A Thanksgiving service is to be held Thursday morning at 9 A. M. promptly at the Community Center. Everyone is asked to give up just one hour to give thanks to the Giver of all things. A beautiful program is planned.

On Monday evening the Mother's Club gave a surprise birthday patry for Mrs. Walker, Sr. The Christian Endeavorers were also invited. It was most comical to see everyone dressed in the clothes that were worn in the gay 90's. It was the scream of the party. Games were then played. At ten o'clock a delicious birthday supper was served. Mrs. Walker was presented with a beautiful bon-bon dish by the club.

To find a cast capable of singing wonderfully well and acting equally well is a producers' task that appears, indeed to be very difficult. But they were successful in this dual role. "The Red Shadow," acted by Perry Askam, was capably done, especially the musical end of the role. Askam has a marvelous voice, and in his make-up of the Red Shadow, re-enforced by a powerful, active physique, he carried away his auditors. The writer felt Askam somewhat over-acted his part but his singing was fine, and for the double role, perhaps none could have been found to surpass him.

Elvira Tanzi as Margot Bonvalet, the governor's ward, was easily stellar of the cast. She combined a voice of range and sweetness and faultless harmony with perfect acting. Small of stature, and doubtless of Jewish parentage, her dark beauty, lustrous eyes and captivating voice held her auditors, one might rightly say, spellbound, without exaggeration.

She is a young woman not over twenty-five. A brilliant career surely is ahead of her. With talent so marked at her age, what might she not do at thirty-five, at fifty! The "Desert Song" is the type of play that will satisfy a varied taste in stage productions. It is colorful, artistic, with plenty of action; mirthful, sad, inspiring. Eddie Fetherston, long with the Curran, furnishes the comedy. It is high-class. And then there are dozens of beautiful women in song skits. Nothing like the Spanish Night—the ladies are draped—but they are good to look at, at that.

***

Yes, "The Squall" and the "Desert Song" are two productions that are worth a trip across the bay and the price of admission.

Winter Brings Green Hills and Flowers To Washington Township

Those who enjoyed the sunshine while driving Sunday afternoon also noted the first green on the hills. If winter comes—that means green hills and flowers in Washington Township's happy valley.
